Dear Friends:

The forces of mother nature definitely left its mark on 2005. Hurricanes Katrina and Rita proved this a few months ago when they brought about unimaginable destruction and loss of life throughout the Gulf Coast. But in the face of these catastrophic storms, it was very uplifting to hear about the many acts of kindness and generosity of so many Americans.

I was very proud of how quickly our state took action to provide assistance. Within days of Hurricane Katrina, Operation Hoosier Relief, Indiana's disaster-assistance team, deployed National Guardsmen, Natural Resource Conservation Officers, law enforcement teams, medical personnel and other volunteers to aid in recovery efforts.

Here in Indiana, tornadoes ripped through parts of the state in November which also took a heavy toll. The outpouring of help and financial aid from local citizens, businesses and Hoosiers throughout the state was of great assistance to those most hurt by these storms. As we begin to rebound and rebuild, I hope this spirit of giving continues.

The Senate will convene January 9th for the short session of this General Assembly which must conclude business by March 14th. Many issues will come before us including a look at our state's emergency management plans to determine if there is anything we need to do legislatively to better prepare us to take quick action in the event of a future disaster.

Senate Democrats will continue to push for initiatives to provide additional funding for education. Many schools were shortchanged under the current state budget and are struggling to meet the needs of students and teachers. We will also be reviewing proposals dealing with property tax relief, energy cost assistance and transportation funding.

I hope you will take time to respond to my '06 legislative survey located inside this newsletter. Having your input on these important issues will help me when making decisions on the many proposals that will be considered.

It is a pleasure to serve the citizens of Senate District 25. I hope you will take time to contact me by mail, phone or email to express your views on pending legislation or if I can provide assistance to you. I look forward to hearing from you.

Wishing you a joyous holiday season and a healthy new year,

REPRESENTING SENATE DISTRICT 25
INCLUDING MOST OF MADISON COUNTY

Investing in our kids

Heading into next session, there are many important issues facing the General Assembly. However, one that we must confront is continuing to find ways to improve our schools and invest in our children.

Because we believe that providing a world-class education should be Indiana's top priority, Senate Democrats will be proposing a comprehensive early childhood development plan entitled Every Child Matters. Aimed at closing the state's growing achievement gap, we believe this proposal can be fully implemented without raising any taxes.

Highlights of this initiative include a plan to phase in statewide full-day kindergarten by 2010; creating a public-private partnership to promote early childhood reading; conducting an independent study to determine what it actually costs to appropriately educate children; establishing Education Innovation Grants to encourage schools to develop new programs and curriculum; and creating a statewide bulk purchasing pool so schools can join together to buy supplies and equipment at reduced prices.

These are common sense approaches that would help to strengthen our communities, grow our economy and improve the lives of all Hoosiers. Investing in the success of the next generation of Hoosiers is one of the best investments we can make, and we hope you will join us by expressing your support of the Every Child Matters proposal.

Privatization

Should the state be moving in this direction?

Change was expected upon the arrival of the new administration last January. In some cases, change may be needed, but a trend has emerged that is disturbing for many Hoosiers. The favored tool now being utilized is that of privatization.

Several areas of state government have already been handed over to private companies including the food service for all state prisons and the operation of the New Castle correctional facility. State hospitals, which care for some of our most vulnerable Hoosiers, have also been slotted for privatization as well as Indiana's Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF), Food Stamp and Medicaid programs. This administration is also exploring whether to allow private businesses to log in our state forests, operate the inns at our state parks and take control of the I-80/90 Toll Road.

Privatization raises many concerns. Out-of-state companies are awarded huge state contracts, but despite the fact that these contracts are paid for by our tax dollars there is virtually no public oversight of their performance. These businesses are not required to follow the same open record laws as state agencies.

When state government privatizes certain functions, the quality and eligibility of those that need services can be diminished. The public has no idea how the programs are operating, the number of people who are getting services or the amount of compensation that company executives are receiving in salaries and benefits. It is hard to see how the public can be assured that its tax dollars are being used wisely unless there is total accountability. In addition, we know that privatizing such things as welfare has failed in other states including Wisconsin and Colorado.

Instead of trying to fix problems from within state agencies, the governor has instead chosen to take risks through privatization. Countless state employees may lose their jobs or be forced to take positions with new private contractors at lower wages with fewer or no benefits.

This is a serious issue that could potentially have a major impact on the lives of thousands of Hoosiers. With the governor's propensity to lean toward privatization, it is likely that legislation will be considered that will call for a review of any plans to turn over control of state services to private vendors.
